

Angela Copeland, M.Ed., CPHIMS-CA

CIO, Toronto Public Library

Angela is passionate about accelerating business transformation by leveraging data, analytics and technology. She brings 20+ years of experience in IM/IT strategic planning, implementation, and operations.

She is currently the CIO at the Toronto Public Library where she is leading the development of the Digital Strategy, creating a culture of inclusiveness and promoting access to library materials, technology, lifelong learning and diverse cultural and leisure experiences.

Previously, Angela was the Director, Data & Analytics Strategy, Projects & Governance at a Provincial agency, Ontario Health, where she spearheaded the development and implementation of the inaugural Data & Analytics Strategy.

She has also held a number of progressive positions including the CIO & Chief Privacy Officer in Toronto hospitals. Angela is currently the elected Vice President on the Board of Directors at Digital Health Canada. She is committed to creating a culture of inclusiveness, promoting access and helping emerging women leaders to “lead, climb, and thrive”.