Kinship Career Summit

Indigenous Tech

November 7, 2024 | 12:00 pm - 3:15 pm PT | Online Event

The First Nations Technology Council and TECHNATION are hosting the Kinship Career Summit to connect Indigenous learners and alumni with top industry employers across Canada. This summit is designed to provide invaluable networking opportunities and access to career and job prospects for our growing networks of 1,300+ talented learners and alumni.

For employers, it presents a unique platform to engage with Indigenous talent, participate in community engagement, and demonstrate commitment in response to the Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada's Calls to Action. By hosting this event virtually, we are dedicated to removing participation barriers and ensuring Indigenous talent from across Canada can join.

Please join us virtually on November 7 for a one-day event featuring networking opportunities, alumni storytelling, a panel of technology professionals, and much more!

Event Hosts

TECHNATION^{CA}

TECHNATION is the industry-government nexus for technology prosperity in Canada. As a member-driven, not-for-profit, TECHNATION unites Canada's technology sector, governments, and communities to enable technology prosperity in Canada. TECHNATION champions technology prosperity by providing advocacy, professional development and networking opportunities across industry and governments at all levels; connecting Canadian scale-ups with global tech leaders; engaging the global supply chain; and filling the technology talent pipeline.

First Nations
Technology Council

The First Nations Technology Council is an Indigenous-led, innovative non-profit mandated by First Nations leadership in British Columbia. The Technology Council works to advance digital literacy, improve internet connectivity, and provide guidance on data and digital technology for all 204 First Nations across the province.
